FLASHIN' QUEEN!

By CLEMMIE MOODIE

LIFE'S a beach for Kate Moss as she struts her stuff on a photo-shoot at the age of 45.

Topless under a trenchcoat, the supermodel showed off her figure during the Dior shoot.

Laughing between snaps in Miami, newly teetotal Kate brought back memories of her 1993 pictures for Calvin Klein, right.

A WEE-WEE DRAM

A WORKER at a whisky distillery has been suspended after someone left a puddle of piddle in a holding area.

The man, 49, was sent home while bosses probe the incident at the William Grant's plant in Girvan, Ayrshire.

The area was quickly cleaned up after a sample of urine was taken for testing and an empty whisky barrel that may have been splashed was destroyed.

The company refused to comment but a source said the holding area was far away from any of its drink products.

Girvan whisky is used in blends for Grant's and Clan MacGregor bottles. The plant also makes Hendrick's Gin.

THE Office's two-part Christmas special in 2003 was last year voted the nation's favourite festive comedy programme.

I GOT HOTTY WITH LOTTIE

Apprentice stars' romp

By MICHAEL HAMILTON

THE Apprentice star Lewis Ellis has spoken of his secret show romp with rival Lottie Lion.

But he was furious when she "gossiped and bragged" about their night of passion.

Marketing manager Lewis, 29, was also upset at claims she romped with a security guard.

Single Lewis and Lottie, 19, are among five still vying to be Lord Sugar's £250,000 business partner.

They grew close in the contestants' shared London house then spent a night together on the Finland tourism task.

Lewis said: "I thought she was great and enjoyed being with her.

"The fling was supposed to be kept between us. We knew we could get kicked out if it was discovered. Then she went round the house telling everyone.

"I confronted her. I was angry she'd put such a great opportunity for us at risk so she could gossip and brag.

"I don't talk to her now as bad things happen when I engage her."

Fearing the boot, Lewis confessed to crew.

He added: "Production came into the house and spoke to us separately.

"I think Lord Sugar was told because for the steam train away-day task we were not allowed to read any notes

Lewis added: "I heard people saying something might have gone on."

STRESS SOS

LEWIS has warned BBC bosses they risk a Love Island or Jeremy Kyle-style suicide on The Apprentice because candidates are under so much pressure.

Lewis will be grilled with Lottie, Scarlett Allen-Horton, 32, Carina Lenore, 30, and Pamela Laird, 29, this week, and said the stress made his hair fall out twice. He said the Beeb must "improve contestant welfare".
